have been held aboard the vessels have been liberated.

Deputy Marshai Miller returned from Tangier Island this morning, where he went to summons witnesses in the case of the United States against Andrew A. Crockett, charged with the shanghaling of nine Richmond men, docketed for a hearing to-morrow.

Mr. Miller reports that at least 100 men have gone ashore at Onancock within the past several days, and that out of about fifty oyster beats that have been operating in the vicinity of Tangler Island but eight are now in commission, the crews of the others having been released. Those in operation, it is said, have crews that were legitimately employed by their masters, and are, for the most part, matives of Tangler Island or of that versely. part, natives of Tangier Island or most part, natives of Tangier Island or of that vicinity.

The liberation of the crews, Mr. Treat thinks, is virtual confession on the part of the masters that their crews had been shanghaled and otherwise oppressed.

When word went out from the Department of Justice at Washington that shanghaling must cease, the marshals get busy, and it would seem that they have about terminated the evil practice.

Mr. Treat has receive.' a letter from the chief of police of Manchester, Va., making inquiry about a lad of that city, who is thought to be on the oyster sloop Clara Tinsley. The boy's parents have been unable to communicate with him, and they think that he is being held against his will. Letters written to him have been returned undelivered. He was seen in Norfolk last on October 4th. The marshal has directed that a search be made for the boy.
